(Continued from Page 11) doctor. If it's taken you three and a half years to recognize that something is drastically wrong you may need a doctor, too.

Insist that your husband get medical attention at once. If he refuses to see a doctor, then you must see your clergyman. You should not be a victim of a kissless marriage and a life without children just because your husband has a clinker in his thinker.

Dear Ann: Our daughter is 18 and by this time should have outgrown her need for constant praise and endless compliments. Instead, it's worse than ever.

She's forever asking, How do you like my hair? How does my new make-up look? Have you noticed that I'm on a good posture kick? These are just a few of her praise-getting devices. Shall I tell her to grow up and quit fishing for compliments?—PERPLEXED MOM

Dear Mom: Your daughter is insecure and hungry for reassurance, otherwise she would not be begging for compliments.

Try building her up without prompting. This will reduce the fishing.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDER'S booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.) Copyright, 1960, Field Enterprises, Inc.
